The first Telugu film song I ever heard was “Intakoo Nuvevaru” from the movie “Snehituda” starring Nani. Then, there was the Malayalam film “Chocolate” that I watched for the first time. In Hindi, it was “Rab Ne Bana Di Jodi.” I have a great appreciation for nature. Although I’m not someone who typically enjoys traveling, I find solace in going on long drives at night. While I may not particularly enjoy taking buses, I have a fondness for train journeys.

In my younger days, my father and I used to play chess during our train travels, and I always loved having the window seat. One of my most memorable trips was with Epshi to Hoganekkal. We went there for my treatment when I was a child and also visited the beach in Chennai. I used to enjoy bathing in the lake at my parents’ native place, as it was a personal favorite of mine. Visiting my relatives’ hometown in December was always a joy because of the lush green surroundings. However, one of my least favorite trips was to Mysore and Ooty, where I didn’t have the best experiences, especially in Mysore.
